Moderator's Message

It is my pleasure to present to the readers the third Issue of Volume 4 of the ‘SCLS Law Review’ after the successful publication of the second Issue of the same Volume. I am thankful to the Contributors of this Issue comprising students, teachers, legal professionals, and legal minds for sharing their legal wisdom and knowledge with our readers. SCLS has always supported research oriented legal education in our law schools. We always patronize research-based activities to build intellectual thought and reasoning among our students and readers.

I must admit the dedication and hard work of the Editorial Board to accomplish this Issue. I am thankful to every Editorial Board members for their relentless effort, devotion, and hard work. I also thank Mr. M. Jashim Ali Chowdhury, ambassador of SCLS, the Editorial Board's academic adviser for his constant support and assistance to every Issue of this Law Review. I also thank the Chief Patron and other Patrons of SCLS for their valuable advices and support.

I am confident that the Journal shall always possess its highest standard, as it has achieved so far. I am hopeful that the Journal shall fill the students' and legal enthusiasts' aspirations from around the world.

Professor Nirmal Kumar Saha

Department of Law, University of Chittagong &
Moderator, Society for Critical Legal Studies.

Editorial

Society for Critical Legal Studies (SCLS) is going to enlighten the legal enthusiasts with the third Issue of Volume 4 of “SCLS Law Review”; a student-edited Law Journal of the volunteers of SCLS. From the very beginning, SCLS has aimed to bring outward changes in the whole legal learning and knowledge building mechanism in Bangladesh. SCLS has already shown its commitment towards this target to achieve it, and so many schemes and plans were also launched accordingly. The Editorial Board believes this volume of Law Review would surely be another supplement in SCLS's efforts to reach its goal. The Editorial team started its journey with the motto of spreading the enthusiasm of research and creating a field of critical legal analysis among the law students' and professionals of this country.

SCLS always tries to follow the international research community's trend by arranging research conferences and symposiums for the interest of the researchers to get the thoughts, views, and opinions of other researchers and participants; so that they can polish their work further. Following the trend, SCLS continued arranging several Online Editorial Symposiums during the widespread Corona pandemic crisis, where a bunch of legal minds from every corner of the country participated and presented their paper in the Symposium. Throughout the editorial symposiums, they enlightened themselves and others through a knowledge-sharing process. SCLS Editorial Board expresses gratitude to the presenters and participants from different universities of the country.

The Editorial body bestows deep gratitude to Mr. Nirmal Kumar Saha, Professor, Department of Law, University of Chittagong, and the Moderator of SCLS, who has facilitated the team with logistical support. The team is also indebted to Mr. M. Jashim Ali Chowdhury, Assistant Professor of Department of Law, University of Chittagong, the Ambassador, and the Academic Advisor of SCLS Law Review for his valuable advice, constant guidance, and direction to the Editorial Board.

The third Issue of Volume 4 of SCLS Law Review contains write-up of several legal issues. The Editorial Body remain thankful to the authors. Their contribution depicts that they feel the same level of interest and enthusiasm in the Legal Research. The research outcomes from such diversified personnel will surely promote the trend of critical thinking in the legal arena.

This Issue of SCLS Law Review has been published in online in the official website of Society for Critical Legal Studies. The Editorial Board is determined to contribute both in the online and print versions in future editions.

The widespread circulation will contribute enrichment to the legal enthusiasts, thereby shall pay accolade to the Editorial Board, acknowledging the hard work of every member of the Editorial Team.

The Editorial Body shall welcome all sorts of comments, suggestions, and constructive criticisms.
